

Yonatan Shiloh-Dayan

Research assistant on behalf of Rosenzweig Minerva Research Center

e-mail: yonatan.dayan@mail.huji.ac.il

Field of interest:

- Modern German-Jewish history
- Intellectual history of the 20th
- History of emigration
- Transfer of cultural knowledge, ideas and political practices between geographical spaces

Vita:

2015 – The Harry and Sylvia Hoffman fellowship program.

2014 – Fellow of "Da'at Hamakom" - I-Core in the Study of Modern Jewish Culture.

2014 – Phd. candidate at the department for History of the Jewish People and Contemporary Jewry, The Hebrew University of Jerusalem.

2014 – Research assistant in a research collaboration between Fritz-Bauer-Institut in Goethe University Frankfurt/Main, The Van-Leer Institute in Jerusalem and The Rosenzweig Minerva Research Center, titled: "German-Israeli Research Cooperation in the Humanities (1970-2000). Studies on Scholarship and Bilateralilty".

2014 – Partaking in a joint project of The Rosenzweig Minerva Research Center and the German Literature Archive Marbach am Neckar, for preserving and researching German-Jewish archives in Israel. Documenting and cataloging the archive of Prof. Walter Grab archive, founder of the Minerva Institute for German History in Tel-Aviv University and a central figure in my dissertation project concerning the influence of Jewish emigrant historians on German historiography during the second half of the 20th century.

2013-2014 – Research stay in Berlin as part of a student exchange program between the Hebrew University of Jerusalem and Freie Universität Berlin.

2010-2014 – Graduate studies at the Center for German Studies at the Hebrew University under the supervision of Prof. Yfaat Weiss. Title of M.A thesis: "Today and Tomorrow, Here and There: A Periodical of Central European Leftist Intellectuals in Palestine".

2007-2010 – B.A in Musicology and Philosophy in the Hebrew University of Jerusalem.